headache is the most frequent symptom and may rarely occur in isolation or be absent press releases from both federal and state governments, in addition to existing online databases, were used to identify all settlements of at least 1 million during the past 20 years.